NTACT Taxonomy for Transition Programming

The Taxonomy is a model for planning, organizing, and evaluating transition education, services, and programs. The model is separated into 5 categories; student focused planning, student development, interagency collaboration, family engagement, and program structure. In these categories you will find concrete practices, identified from effective programs and research, for implementing transition-focused education.

Ohio's AATA Library

Looking for a formal or informal Age Appropriate Transition Assessment? This library offers a wide selection of transition assessments used to gather a student's PINS. There are also other resources for professionals to use as they work to prepare students for their post-secondary options.
