3. Information Sharing related to Education and Business Collaboration Efforts:

a. Defiance County Economic Development Director

b. Fulton County Economic Development Director

- Matt Gilroy shared that EDCs are non-profit organizations that are funded partly by the county, its cities and villages and partly by area businesses and organizations
- Their focus is business growth/attraction and workforce/worker attraction
- A study on affordable housing in Fulton County was concluded recently. The report indicates a shortage of rentals for the younger population and one story/ranch structures for the aging population.

c. Henry County Economic Development Director

d. Williams County Economic Development Director

- Matt Davis shared that there is a nationwide workforce shortage problem
- The area EDCs meet more often than other areas of the state/US and their focus is on regional (NW Ohio) collaboration and marketing.
- Because the area schools are strong, this provides an attraction to potential businesses and employees
- A current housing study concluded that Williams County could absorb 450 new housing units in the next year. The full study will soon be available on the www.wedco.info website.

e. Northwest State Community College

- Cindy Krueger shared that the college has a new President and new Department of Agricultural Studies Chairman as well as new programs in Ag Business and Agronomy.
- They have upgraded their cyber security offerings/studies to include a short term certificate
- Currently have 690 students in CCP
- 150 students are involved in a six-county internship program
- Student success is a focus area
- The receipt of a Title Three Grant has allowed them to develop an Advising Center with four full-time Academic advisors
- President Thomson has spoken with area Rotaries
- Their five areas of focus are; student success, community connections, access to opportunities, professional development and being a "first choice employer".
- Upcoming events include a Convocation, October 3rd that is open to the community; Manufacturing Day, October 12th, and Discover NSCC, November 3rd.

f. Four County Career Center

- Tim Meister shared that they have one or two representatives from each county on their many Advisory Boards which are required for each program.
- Now have robotics and Smart Labs with a full time robotics trainer and new welding robot
- Touched on the school's Early Job Placement Program is trying to remove some of the roadblocks for those under 18 in the program not being able to work in some facilities due to age.
- Drug testing implemented through 'Drug Free Clubs of America' program that allows students to earn a card to present to potential employers that recognizes them as drug free.

g. STEAM

- John Mansel-Pleydell shared that STEAM was started in May 2017 focusing on events to bring districts and businesses together
- A roundtable is scheduled for September 12, 2018
- Worked with Fulton County 'Workplace Wednesdays'
- North Star Bluescope Steel and Nature Fresh Farms tour
- Observed STEM camp in July, 2018 at Spangler Candy offered by NSCC
- Tinora is currently interested in Maker Space
- Kris Dobbelaere is organizing a Tinker Tank (mobile Maker Space)
- Working with NSCC in developing a Maker Fair
- Chad Rex shared that they are working with districts on drones in education similar to robotics competitions
- Students are learning to fly, fix and design drones

h. School Districts

- Chris Lake shared that they are partnering with Swanton Welding to provide welding experience to some students two days a week.
- Jim Roach shared that they are again partnering with Defiance Metal Products to provide experience for students as well.
- Kelly Meyers shared that Holgate is completing some solar field and LED upgrades during the school year that will give the students opportunities to observe the work and interview the workers regarding their professions/techniques.

4. New Business:

- a. Business Spotlight – notify Kerri if you would like to schedule a community business for the agenda to provide a 15-20 minute overview their business and collaboration ideas/interest
- b. Data/Needs Assessment Discussion

-Kerri discussed the Ohio College Tech Prep sample survey handout that has been used to gather information from local businesses. Matt Gilroy suggested that the EDCs could gather this information more specific to our region as they have closer direct contact with local businesses.

- c. Plan of Action/Focus for 2018-19

-A survey will be sent out prior to the next meeting to help determine what members feel are priorities of this BAC which in turn will assist with action planning at the December meeting.

5. Issues From the Council/Around the Table:

-Matt Gilroy stated that many of the challenges districts are facing are the same as area businesses such as drug use, truancy/tardiness, disorganization, soft skills and problem-solving

-NORED (Northwest Ohio Regional Economic Development) is comprised of 12 counties with five executive committee members being from the four county area making them more accessible to the NwoESC BAC and meeting its goals.

-From a business perspective, the Ohio School Report Cards are not looked on favorably for attracting new businesses and keeping current ones as they can have a negative effect on employees'/potential employees' perception of the area communities. The flaw is in the Report Card design, as our schools are strong.

-Consider NwoESC BAC lobby for Report Card revisions to alleviate this concern

6. Next Meeting:

a. Tuesday, December 4, 2018; 8:00 a.m. at NwoESC (7:45 breakfast)

7. Adjourn: A motion to adjourn the meeting of the NwoESC Business Advisory Council was made by James Roach and second by Kermit Riehle. Meeting adjourned at 9:00 a.m.
