Post COVID Update

We use more online educational resources. I haven't printed a worksheet all year.

I have found that sometimes it is easier to show parents how they can help their child at home than trying to explain it. During Covid, we were constantly making videos to help explain lessons to not only the kids, but also to the parents. We are continuing to make videos with a qr code for parents to scan to help show them activities that they can do at home to help reinforce what we are doing in the classroom.

Incorporating more SEL (social and emotional learning) into Bellringers/exit tickets. We are doing "mindful minutes" where we take time to share one thing we are grateful for (whether in person, on Nearpod, Google Forms, etc). On Mondays students share the positive experiences they had during the weekend and discuss ways students can try adding positive/fun experiences throughout the school week.
