LONG-TERM DISABILITY

A long-term disability protection plan is provided to full-time employees at no cost. This plan provides 75% of the employee's gross annual salary minus any benefit deductions for an absence in excess of eight weeks and one day.

The physician's statement must clearly indicate the date on which the disability begins, the nature of the disability, and the anticipated date of return. Authorization for long-term disability pay will be implemented only with the submission of the proper documentation outlining the disability.

An employee with accumulated days can utilize those days during the required eight week and one day waiting period.

An employee without accumulated days will begin receiving 75% of his/her gross annual salary at the conclusion of the eight week and one day waiting period. The eight week and one day waiting period is subject to evaluation by the BOCES medical service to determine the typical time frame allowable for specific disabilities. SERVICE RETIREMENT

RETIREMENT PLAN

All full-time employees must enroll in the New York State & Local Retirement System. Membership is optional for part-time employees. When you join the Retirement System, you are assigned to a tier based on your date of membership. Your tier determines:

- Your eligibility for service or disability retirement benefits.
- The formula used in the calculation of your benefits.
- Death benefit coverage.
- Service crediting.
- Whether you must contribute toward your benefits.

For detailed information on the retirement system and the benefits it provides, please visit the following website: http://www.osc.state.ny.us/retire/

SERVICE INCREMENT

- Have at least 10 years of full-time continuous service with BOCES.
- Are eligible to retire with the New York State & Local Retirement System.
- File a notice to retire with the District Superintendent at least three months prior to the departure date.

The service increment of $50 per unused sick day to a maximum of 185 days may be paid in the form of a lump sum payment in the employee's final paycheck or may be paid directly into a 403(b) account.

SECTION 41j

Employees having up to 260 days of accumulated sick time at retirement can elect to apply up to 185 of their accumulated sick days to the service increment and use the balance of their days to increase their service credit at retirement. This provision is covered under Section 41j of the New York State & Local Retirement System; maximum number of days that can be applied to service credit under Section 41j is 165 days. Part-time staff are not eligible for the service increment but may participate in Section 41j.

SALARY

The BOCES Board typically approves salary increases effective July 1 of each year. Staff hired on or after April 1 of the preceding year are not eligible for the increase.

OVERTIME PAY AND COMPENSATORY TIME

Employees who work beyond 40 hours in a week are eligible to receive either monetary compensation ("overtime pay") or compensatory time ("comp time") for the extra time worked. Both overtime pay and comp time are calculated at 1.5 times the number of hours worked beyond 40 in a week. Employees have the option of selecting overtime pay or comp time.

The parameters regarding overtime pay and comp time are as follows:

- Holidays, sick time, personal time, vacation days, jury duty, and bereavement days are not considered hours worked for purposes of meeting the 40 hour threshold.

  - Example #1: An employee takes Monday off as a vacation day. The employee then works their regular 8 hour day on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and works 8½ hours on Friday. The extra ½ hour on Friday does not count as overtime as the total hours actually worked for the week totals 32½, not 40.

  - Example #2: An employee works their regular 8 hour day on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. On Friday, the employee takes one hour sick leave during the middle of the day for a medical appointment. The employee then works an extra half hour past their regularly scheduled end time. This extra ½ hour does not count as overtime because the total hours actually worked for the week totals 39½, not 40.

  - In the above two examples, even though the additional half hour does not count as overtime calculated at 1.5 times the number of hours worked beyond 40, the extra time is payable as straight time i.e. paid at the employee's regular hourly rate.

- The employee must actually work beyond 40 hours excluding 10 minutes "de minimis" time each day.

  - For example, an employee's regularly scheduled shift is 8:00 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. (8½ hours daily minus a 30 minute lunch). The employee typically arrives at work at 7:50 a.m. and spends 10 minutes settling in. That 10 minutes does not count as overtime as it is considered "de minimis" time.

- The employee must be directed by his/her supervisor to work beyond the employee's regularly scheduled hours.

- The supervisor has given prior written approval to work the additional time.

OVERTIME PAY

- A timesheet must be kept for every employee who is using paid overtime. The time sheet is reviewed and signed by the administrator to authorize paid overtime.

COMP TIME

- A comp time log must be kept for every employee who collects and uses compensatory time.
- The log is reviewed and signed weekly by the supervisor to authorize usage of compensatory time. The supervisor and the employee must agree on the days/hours used. The time must be used by September 1 of the following school year or it will be lost.
- A comp time log is available in the Forms section on the Human Resources webpage at www.monroe2boces.org/hr

Please contact the Human Resources Department for assistance with your questions.

CLASSIFIED LIAISON COMMITTEE

The purpose of the Classified Liaison Committee is to facilitate communication and understanding between administration and the classified staff. The Classified Liaison Committee is comprised of the District Superintendent, Assistant Superintendent for Human Resources, and one classified staff representative from each of the following departments: Administration, Career & Technical Education (CTE), Communication & Technology Services (CaTS), Curriculum, Instruction & Professional Development and Instructional Programs, BOCES 4 Science and Exceptional Children and Center for Workforce Development. Classified staff representatives are selected by their Department Director, and serve a three year term on the committee. The committee meets every other month from September through June. Department representatives solicit agenda items from their department colleagues and all items are brought to the committee meetings for discussion. After each meeting, department representatives distribute minutes from the meeting.

Your Employee Rights Under the Family and Medical Leave Act

What is FMLA leave?

The Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) is a federal law that provides eligible employees with job-protected leave for qualifying family and medical reasons. The U.S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Division (WHD) enforces the FMLA for most employees.

Eligible employees can take up to 12 workweeks of FMLA leave in a 12-month period for:

- The birth, adoption or foster placement of a child with you,
- Your serious mental or physical health condition that makes you unable to work,
- To care for your spouse, child or parent with a serious mental or physical health condition, and
- Certain qualifying reasons related to the foreign deployment of your spouse, child or parent who is a military servicemember.

An eligible employee who is the spouse, child, parent or next of kin of a covered servicemember with a serious injury or illness may take up to 26 workweeks of FMLA leave in a single 12-month period to care for the servicemember.

You have the right to use FMLA leave in one block of time. When it is medically necessary or otherwise permitted, you may take FMLA leave intermittently in separate blocks of time, or on a reduced schedule by working less hours each day or week. Read Fact Sheet #28M(c) for more information.

FMLA leave is not paid leave, but you may choose, or be required by your employer, to use any employer-provided paid leave if your employer's paid leave policy covers the reason for which you need FMLA leave.

Am I eligible to take FMLA leave?

You are an eligible employee if all of the following apply:

- You work for a covered employer,
- You have worked for your employer at least 12 months,
- You have at least 1,250 hours of service for your employer during the 12 months before your leave, and
- Your employer has at least 50 employees within 75 miles of your work location.

Airline flight crew employees have different "hours of service" requirements.

You work for a covered employer if one of the following applies:

- You work for a private employer that had at least 50 employees during at least 20 workweeks in the current or previous calendar year,
- You work for an elementary or public or private secondary school, or
- You work for a public agency, such as a local, state or federal government agency. Most federal employees are covered by Title II of the FMLA, administered by the Office of Personnel Management.

How do I request FMLA leave?

Generally, to request FMLA leave you must:

- Follow your employer's normal policies for requesting leave,
- Give notice at least 30 days before your need for FMLA leave, or
- If advance notice is not possible, give notice as soon as possible.

You do not have to share a medical diagnosis but must provide enough information to your employer so they can determine whether the leave qualifies for FMLA protection. You must also inform your employer if FMLA leave was previously taken or approved for the same reason when requesting additional leave.

Your employer may request certification from a health care provider to verify medical leave and may request certification of a qualifying exigency.

The FMLA does not affect any federal or state law prohibiting discrimination or supersede any state or local law or collective bargaining agreement that provides greater family or medical leave rights.

State employees may be subject to certain limitations in pursuit of direct lawsuits regarding leave for their own serious health conditions. Most federal and certain congressional employees are also covered by the law but are subject to the jurisdiction of the U.S. Office of Personnel Management or Congress.

What does my employer need to do?

If you are eligible for FMLA leave, your employer must:

- Allow you to take job-protected time off work for a qualifying reason,
- Continue your group health plan coverage while you are on leave on the same basis as if you had not taken leave, and
- Allow you to return to the same job, or a virtually identical job with the same pay, benefits and other working conditions, including shift and location, at the end of your leave.

Your employer cannot interfere with your FMLA rights or threaten or punish you for exercising your rights under the law. For example, your employer cannot retaliate against you for requesting FMLA leave or cooperating with a WHD investigation.

After becoming aware that your need for leave is for a reason that may qualify under the FMLA, your employer must confirm whether you are eligible or not eligible for FMLA leave. If your employer determines that you are eligible, your employer must notify you in writing:

- About your FMLA rights and responsibilities, and
- How much of your requested leave, if any, will be FMLA-protected leave.

Where can I find more information?

Call 1-866-487-9243 or visit dol.gov/fmla to learn more.

If you believe your rights under the FMLA have been violated, you may file a complaint with WHD or file a private lawsuit against your employer in court. Scan the QR code to learn about our WHD complaint process.

SENIORITY

Seniority determinations follow New York State and local Civil Service Law. Generally, an employee's seniority in a specific position is calculated on the date an employee begins work in that position at Monroe 2-Orleans BOCES. This date is referred to as the seniority date.

Employees who are in a position to need unpaid time should understand that their seniority date is adjusted in an amount equal to any unpaid days.

When it is necessary to conduct workforce reductions, individuals with the least amount of time in a title are generally affected first. Time away from a position without pay can sometimes change an individual's placement on a seniority list, so all employees should consider the impact of requests for unpaid time.

MONROE 2-ORLEANS BOCES BOARD POLICIES AND REGULATIONS

As a Monroe 2-Orleans BOCES employee, it is your responsibility to read and be familiar with all Board policies and regulations. The policies and regulations can be found on the BOCES 2 Employee Portal.

BOCES CIVIL SERVICE

Employees who are required to be certified by the State of New York are not bound to any Civil Service requirements (teachers, speech pathologists, administrators, etc.).

All other employees will be civil servants under the jurisdiction of Monroe County Civil Service.

If your job is competitive (clerical, OT/PT, non-certified administrative staff, computer services staff, etc.), you will be required to take an exam and be appointed from a list of eligibles.

If your job is non-competitive (teacher aide, bus driver, cleaner, bus aide, cafeteria worker, school aide, notetaker, interpreter, etc.), you are required to complete an application. On the Civil Service application, you are required to show you have the minimum qualifications to hold your position. Check with Human Resources to find out the minimum qualifications for your position.

EXAMINATION PROCESS

Civil Service exams are required for most Civil Service jobs that are classified by Civil Service as competitive.

(Non-competitive, labor class, and exempt positions do not require an exam. For these positions you must meet minimum qualifications and be appointed by an employer.)

The following are steps in the examination process:

STEP 1 An employer has an opening and a list of eligibles is not available. Or, a list has been "used up" and a new one is requested by Civil Service.

STEP 2 An exam announcement will appear on the monthly listing of Civil Service exams. This listing is available at the Monroe County Civil Service Office and http://www.monroecounty.gov

STEP 3 Applications will be accepted for a month or two. The exam date is included on the monthly listing. You will receive an entry ticket two weeks before the exam. This will tell you what time and where to report. Parking can be a problem, so arrive at the exam site at least 30 minutes early.

STEP 4 The exam is given. There is not a good tool to prepare for these exams. There is not a practice exam or set of question types that you can prepare for. However, you should prepare for questions that relate to the title. Clerical examinations include spelling, grammar, office policy, and reading comprehension. The scope of the exam questions may be available at the County Civil Service Office.

Some clerical titles will be given a typing test. All written Civil Service exams are multiple choice.

STEP 5 The exams are graded and you receive notice of your grade. Most exams are graded by the State Civil Service Commission. This process will take at least four months. Some lower level clerical exams are graded locally and will be graded in four to six weeks.

STEP 6 A list of eligible candidates is created in order of grade on the exam. Only those scoring a 70% or above will be included. Candidates who receive the same score shall be ranked in accordance with such uniform, impartial procedure as may be prescribed therefore by the Commission.

A list has a life of one year. This may be extended by the Civil Service Commission.

STEP 7 The list is sent to employers who request them. An employer may have an opening or may be trying to appoint an employee who already works for them.

If an employer has an opening and a list does not fill their need, it is very unlikely that they will wait for this process to be completed (four to eight months). More than likely, they will provisionally appoint someone to the position.

- Do not enter the Civil Service process expecting a job in the first six months. Most successful candidates will spend up to 1½ years in the process.
- Do take any exam that you are eligible for. The more exams you take, the more lists your name will appear on.
- Do apply directly to any department, school district, or agency that you are interested in working for. If a list does not exist, the employer will get candidates from applications.
- Do visit the Monroe County Civil Service Office or its website to check job postings at least once every other week.
- Do ask to look at lists. You may ask to see any Civil Service list. This will help you access the progress made in reaching your name on the list. You may even see other lists for titles you are interested in. Notes on the list will give you clues to who an employer is searching for.

CANVASS PROCESS

When an employer gets a list, they will send a letter to each candidate. The letter will ask if the candidate is interested in a position that is "open." An employer has two months to complete the canvass process for this list.

- Do return this letter within the time frame listed on the letter. If you don't, your name will be dropped from the Civil Service list. If your name is dropped, call the Civil Service Office and request your name be reinstated.
- Do not request an interview if you have no intention of taking the position.
- Do not leave your current employment based on a canvass letter.
- Do decline the interview for one of the reasons listed if you are sure you do not want the job. Your name will remain on the list for other openings.
- Do return your letter stating you are interested in the position even if you're not positive. You will have the opportunity to learn more about the job during the interview process.
- Do call the employer if you are unsure of schedule, pay, starting date, or any other fact that will help you decide if you are interested.
- Do not demand information from an employer: they may ask you to hold your questions for the interview process.

RULE OF THREE

A jurisdiction must consider the top three candidates who return a letter stating they are interested in the position. This does not mean you must score in the top three to be considered. Many times candidates will decline an interview on the canvass letter. When this happens, each candidate will move up one position. In the case of a tie for first, second or third the score or scores that produce at least three candidates will be considered. All those tied at that level will be considered.

EXAMPLE A

Name	Test Score	Response to Canvass
Candidate A	98%	Interested
Candidate B	98%	Interested
Candidate C	90%	Declined an Interview
Candidate D	77%	Interested
Candidate E	77%	Interested
Candidate F	71%	Interested

The employer may permanently appoint Candidates A, B, D, or E. Score is no longer important, any of the four may be appointed.

EXAMPLE B

Name	Test Score	Response to Canvass
Candidate A	80%	Interested
Candidate B	80%	Interested
Candidate C	80%	Interested
Candidate D	78%	Declined an Interview
Candidate E	78%	Interested

The employer may permanently appoint Candidates A, B, or C. Candidate D has scored the second best but is not eligible because there are three ahead of him or her at this time.

- Do not expect an interview for every canvass letter you return. You may be too far down on the list to be considered, or the employer may be able to appoint a candidate they seek.
- Do expect a letter within two months explaining what has happened to a job if you responded with interest in the position. If you are not notified, call the employer and ask what has happened.

PROVISIONAL APPOINTMENTS

If a list has less than three candidates interested in a position, that list is said to be exhausted or "used up." If a list is over one year old and has not been extended, that list is said to be expired or "dead." If a list is expired or exhausted, a jurisdiction may hire anyone off the street who meets the minimum requirements to take the exam the next time it is offered. This employee is provisional.

A provisional employee must take the exam the next time it is offered. It may be offered within a few months or it may take up to a year before the exam is given. A provisional employee must also be in the top three candidates who return a canvass letter as interested to be appointed permanently.

This is a problem for candidates who accept a provisional appointment. If they fail the exam, they must give up their job if three people on the list are interested in the position. Consider this when taking a provisional appointment, since it may be temporary.

This also is a problem for the employer. A provisional employee may have been trained, and doing a good job for a number of months. To lose this employee will cause a return to an untrained new employee. In this case, the employer may delay canvass. The Civil Service Office will not allow that for more than two months in most cases.

PROMOTIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

On occasion, exams are given to promote employees who own a lower Civil Service title. The advantage of taking an exam on a promotional basis is the limited pool of candidates. Only those employees holding a lower permanent appointment in the school or agency are eligible to take a promotional exam. In an open competitive exam, all employees will be in competition with all candidates in the county.

There are three ways a jurisdiction can justify a promotion: if the candidate changes positions, if the job the candidate holds changes, or if a position has been classified to the wrong title.

If you have questions about your title, ask your employer to consider sending a "New Position Duties Statement (222)" to the Civil Service Department. The employer will provide information about percentage of time at specific tasks or duties. The Civil Service Office will then compare those responsibilities to those of specific titles, and a title will be assigned.
